Media Release

DeepBlue, Australia's string rock experience are touring India from 28th November to 6th December 2012.

Imagine a group that shuffles Radiohead, Corelli, Gotye and DeepBlue originals remixed with lush strings, big beats and rock 'n' roll. DeepBlue's new show Who Are You is all about the music and the moments that shape our lives. The performers' exquisite playing, precision moves, circus antics and immersive visuals are guaranteed to delight audiences.

[paragraph about how we've been invited to participate in Oz Fest and also perform at the blueFROG in Mumbai and Delhi – maybe also mention the orphanage workshop here too?]

Co-producer and Queensland University of Technology (QUT) Professor, Andy Arthurs describes a DeepBlue show as a social night that is full of fun. "In all DeepBlue shows, audiences experience fantastic emotional performances from 10 energetic musicians. We hope that everyone will have a great night out together".

Since DeepBlue began as an ARC project at the Creative Industries Faculty of QUT in 2005, they have constantly researched the desires of their audience. Initially, inviting their fans text in their dreams and song requests, DeepBlue now get to know their audience via their ground-breaking Interactive Programme. Audiences use their Wi-Fi enabled devices (smart phones, iPads etc.) to access the Interactive Show Programme that is full of info about DeepBlue's music and also enables audience members to confidentially share identity-forming moments of their lives during the show

Since 2006 DeepBlue has worked and performed with over 5000 young musicians across Australia in YoungBlue workshops and holiday programs. Visit www.youngblue.net.au for more info. In collaboration with Dhararvi Rocks, Acorn Foundation and blueFROG DeepBlue musicians will run workshops and performances with children from local orphanages.

DeepBlue have wowed audiences across Australia and overseas, sold out their last two Brisbane seasons, and were finalists on the 2011 TV show Australia's Got Talent.
